

Equal Opportunities and Dignity at Work

This equal opportunities policy statement and policy statement on dignity at work are designed to implement the commitment of Farnham Maltings to equal opportunities. It is the responsibility of every employee, working on or off site, to ensure his or her own conduct conforms to the expected standards and reflects these policy statements.

The aim of the policy is to encourage harmony and respect amongst individuals so as to promote good working practices with a view to maximising the performance and the return to Farnham Maltings and the employees.

If equal opportunities are not applied, then valuable talent and potential are wasted. Moreover, when unfair discrimination, harassment, bullying or victimisation take place, they bring about a climate of fear, insecurity and poor work performance. As well as being unlawful it affects profitability and morale. It is therefore vital that every employee understands his or her responsibilities. Equal opportunities is taken very seriously by Farnham Maltings and wilful failure to apply the policies or evidence of discrimination, harassment, bullying or victimisation will result in disciplinary action which may include your dismissal.

Policy statement on dignity at work

1. Farnham Maltings believes that the dignity of every person must be respected. Harassment and victimisation are forms of unlawful discrimination, which are unacceptable and will be regarded as gross misconduct. The highest standards of conduct are required of everyone regardless of seniority.
2. Harassment is defined as unwanted conduct that has the purpose or effect of violating someone's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for them. Unwanted conduct of this nature can constitute harassment of an individual even if its directed at another person. Harassment can take a number of forms:
3. Harassment may be unwanted conduct related to a protected characteristic. However, a person does not have to possess a protected characteristic to be a victim of harassment. Individuals who are subjected to harassment because of their association with someone who has a protected characteristic can also be victims. It is also possible for someone to be subjected to harassment because colleagues wrongly believe they have a protected characteristic. Unwanted conduct can include any kind of action or inaction, behaviour, exclusion, written or spoken words, jokes, imagery, or physical contact that the victim finds objectionable or offensive. The test of harassment is, at least in part, subjective.
4. Sexual harassment is unwanted conduct of a sexual nature. This can include any unsolicited or unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature, such as: making sexual advances; touching; staring; making inappropriate comments; telling sexual jokes; displaying or sending pornographic photographs or other materials of a sexual nature.

5. Harassment can also be less favourable treatment of someone because they have rejected or submitted to unwanted conduct of a sexual nature or conduct related to sex or gender reassignment.
6. Condoning any form of harassment may be harassment in itself.
7. Farnham Maltings accepts its responsibility for protecting employees from harassment by third parties, such as clients, customers and visitors. Employees are required to report any incidents of third-party harassment immediately to their manager or supervisor.
8. Victimisation occurs when someone is subjected to detrimental treatment because they have (or are thought to have) brought proceedings under the Equality Act, given evidence or information in support of proceedings or made allegations about any breach of the Act.
9. Harassment and victimisation will be regarded as gross misconduct for disciplinary purposes. Accordingly, employees guilty of harassment or victimisation run a serious risk of summary dismissal.
10. Equally, an allegation of harassment must not be made lightly. If it is found that an individual has made an allegation of harassment without foundation and maliciously or has given false evidence or information in relation to an allegation, then this will also be regarded as gross misconduct for disciplinary purposes.

Procedure

1. As a general principle physical contact between employees themselves and employees with members of the public should be avoided, particularly within the office environment, to avoid risk of accusations of inappropriate behaviour.
2. Farnham Maltings recognises that the theatre environment and rehearsal process can require a level of physical contact; however caution should still be exercised within this environment.
3. Meetings between all employees, volunteers and resident users of the Farnham Maltings, are to be held sitting opposite each other and all physical contact is to be avoided.
4. All complaints of harassment or victimisation will be dealt with and in the strictest confidence. Complaints should be made to your manager through the grievance procedure unless the complaint is regarding this person when you should complain to that person's superior. If it is necessary to escalate your complaint of harassment or victimisation you may approach any other member of the Senior Management Team - Director, Deputy Director. Alternatively, you may take your complaint directly to the Council of Management.
